

Preoccupation with the composition, placement, embellishment, elaboration of words, their constitutive letters, and their ultimate intention to address forcefully is most usually associated with the the progenitive impulse Of Dada. Besides some conceptions which surround the identification of Dada and its spirit, there is consistency in the